QUICK START GUIDE

YOUR FIRST QUEST

Non-player characters (NPCs) are characters not controlled by players. They are the quest-givers of World of Warcraft. When an NPC has information regarding a quest for you, a symbol appears above the character's head. The symbols and their explanations are as follows:

- ! A yellow exclamation point means the NPC has a quest to give you.
- ? A yellow question mark means that you have satisfied the requirements for a quest that the NPC gave you. Speak with the NPC to receive your reward.
- ! A grey exclamation point means that the NPC will have a quest for you in the near future. You will need to reach a higher level before you will be offered the quest.

To get started, find an NPC with a yellow '!' above its head. Approach the NPC and right-click the mouse to receive the quest information. Then simply follow the directions, and you're on your way!

FIGHTING AND SPELLCASTING

Select an enemy by left-clicking. To attack with a melee weapon, approach to within striking distance and right-click. You will see numbers floating up, representing the amount of damage the enemy is taking.

The spells available to spellcasters are represented in the toolbar at the bottom of the screen. Each slot is numbered to cast a spell, select an enemy. The number on the toolbar is also displayed on your keyboard, or click on the spell in your toolbar.

Health Meter: All characters have health meters, represented by a bar next to their portrait (your portrait is in the upper left-hand corner). Health represents life. If the health bar reaches zero, the character will die.

Mana Meter: Mana represents spellcasting energy. When mana is depleted, your character will be unable to cast spells.

Energy Meter: This meter is used by rogues. It increases quickly over time, allowing the rogue to perform special abilities and attacks.

Rage Meter: This is an energy meter for warriors. Rage allows you to use special abilities and attacks. Rage typically peaks during and right after combat and decreases during idle time.

ALAGAËSIA ADVENTURE GAME

Based on the Inheritance Trilogy by Christopher Paolini

Welcome

The mountain city under Farthen Dûr, Tronjheim

We are all in grave danger, said Ajihad, leader of the Varden. An army of Urgals is approaching, maybe a day's march from here. But the Urgals are not approaching over land: They are in the tunnels . . . we are going to be attacked from below.

Our only hope is to contain the Urgals in three of the larger tunnels and channel them into Farthen Dûr so they don't swarm inside the city of Tronjheim like locusts. I need you to help the dwarves collapse extraneous tunnels.

This is one battle we cannot lose. Now go and complete your task!

Type BEGIN to get started.

Clear Instructional Objective

A perspective view of a long, brightly lit school hallway. The walls are covered with numerous colorful, framed student artworks, including abstract paintings and drawings. The floor is a polished, light-colored tile that reflects the overhead fluorescent lights. In the distance, a red exit sign is visible above a doorway. On the left wall, there is a black sign with white icons for restrooms and a wheelchair, and a round analog clock. The hallway leads to a larger room at the end, where more artwork is visible.

“Today’s students are no longer the people our educational system was designed to teach.”

– Marc Prensky

"I believe that schools are approaching the point of dangerous irrelevance when it comes to preparing students adequately for their digital futures. The pace of change is too slow and the pace of change in technology is too quick. I am a strong believer in public schools, but we need a new paradigm"

-Scott McLeod, Castle Director
